Berkshire Grown and Community Land Trust in the Southern Berkshires are convening a conversation among people and organizations working in the Berkshires to put more farmers on the land and more land into farming. We believe community access to affordable land is critical to our food security and the sustainability of our economy. We would like to discuss with you ways we can build a more secure land base for farms, farmer housing and related businesses. Our intention is to foster dialogue among —

- Established, new and retiring farmers seeking opportunities
- Land owners considering options for farming on their land
- The land conservation community connecting land owners and farmers
- Agriculture commissions developing their local agriculture economy
- Community food security planners seeking locally produced food
- Sustainable community organizers attracting youth to the Berkshires
- Financial advisors, assessors and attorneys managing transactions

This event is a collaboration of Community Land Trust in the Southern Berkshires, Berkshire Grown, Berkshire Co-op Market, Land for Good, The Carrot Project, Great Barrington Agriculture Commission, Berkshire Natural Resources Council, Schumacher Center for a New Economics and Bard College at Simon's Rock Center for Food Studies.
